Inventor is engaged in the activity of production and commerce of IP, notably, IP rights it has on file with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO), (www.uspto.gov) in the forms of patented and patent-pending materials. Inventor's practice of production and commerce of IP is guided by 35 U.S.C. § 101 35 U.S.C. 101 of the USPTO.

The USPTO 35 USC §101 statute recites,

"Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title."

Patents issued to Inventor by the USPTO confer upon Inventor the right to exclude others from making, using or selling its patented invention(s) throughout the United States, as well as the right to prevent others from importing its patented invention(s) into the United States as per 35 U.S.C. 271.

In doing so, Inventor produces, markets and protects IP rights in accord with the USPTO.

Inventor produces and markets intellectual property under the Federal Trade Commission's (<https://www.ftc.gov/about-ftc>) mission of:

However, Inventor does not provide compensation for legal fees on a prospective purchaser's behalf. Though Inventor does professionally recommend that a prospective purchaser retain legal counsel during communications with Inventor in formation of sales contracts, transferring and/or assignment or agreement of IP rights, recordation fees and any and all matters that constitute legal interests and where legal counsel would be better advised to be retained.

Intellectual property recordation and transfer in the form of assignment or agreement fees are co-measurable with the fee schedule set forth by the USPTO for recording IP rights transfers between parties and may be reviewed at: <https://www.uspto.gov/learning-and-resources/fees-and-payment/uspto-fee-schedule> and are assessed upon the contractually obligated party(s).
